New Housing Registrations as a Leading Indicator of the BC Economy

by Calista Cheung and Dmitry Granovsky

Bank of Canada staff discussion papers are completed staff research studies on a wide variety of subjects relevant to central bank policy, produced independently from the Bank's Governing Council. This research may support or challenge prevailing policy orthodoxy. Therefore, the views expressed in this paper are solely those of the authors and may differ from official Bank of Canada views. No responsibility for them should be attributed to the Bank.

Project Goals

- Assess which measure, housing registrations or housing starts, offers stronger predictive value of housing completions.
- The relationship between housing registrations and economic drivers
- Which construction type is most sensitive to economic conditions.

Data

- Single Detached Homes includes both single detached homes enrolled in home warranty insurance and owner builder authorization homes which are exempt from licensing and home warranty insurance.
- Multi Unit Homes refers homes in multi unit buildings (two or more dwelling units) enrolled with home warranty insurance EXCLUDING multi unit buildings with rental exemptions.
- Purpose Built Rental (or Rental exemption) refers to homes in multi unit buildings built specifically for rental purposes and are not covered by home warranty insurance. These exempted homes must be constructed for rental purposes, including social housing, and have a restrictive covenant registered on title restricting the sale of any dwelling unit for a 10-year period. Rental homes with a covenant may however be captured under "multi-unit homes" if the unit is voluntarily enrolled with home warranty insurance.

More to explore

- Timing of registrations vs. starts and completions
- Gaps between registration(BCH) and construction(CMHC), by housing type and region
- Whether registrations respond faster to economic changes
- And more...

Report Context

The Monthly New Homes Registry Report provides information on new home registrations, which occur before the issuance of building permits and housing starts. As new home registrations are subject to change, they should be considered as planned or proposed projects. The report is intended for use by the residential construction industry, real estate community and researchers.

General Highlights

- In 2025, 47,858 new homes were registered* in B.C., including 5,562 single detached* and 42,296 multi-unit homes*.
- In 2025, total home registrations* are up 4.7% from 2024. Registrations for multi-unit homes* increased 5.4%, while registrations for single detached homes* decreased 0.9%.
- In December, 2,672 new homes were registered* in B.C., a 50.3% decrease compared with December 2024.
- Using a 12-month moving average*, there were 3,388 new registered homes* in December, a 5.3% decrease from November for all registered new homes.
- Metro Vancouver accounted for 45.1% of all new homes registered* in December: Victoria (593), Surrey (413) and Burnaby (238) were the top three cities in registered new homes this month.
- In December, there were more multi-unit homes than single detached homes in Lake Country, Prince Rupert, Comox, Squamish, Victoria, Port Coquitlam, Revelstoke, Abbotsford, Kelowna, Coquitlam, Penticton, Chilliwack, Surrey, Burnaby, Powell River, Vancouver, Salmon Arm, Lantzville, Langford, Prince George and Langley*.
- In 2025, 25,805 purpose-built rental units* were registered in B.C. Compared with 2024, the number of registered rental units increased 40.0%.

*Langley includes the Township of Langley and City of Langley.
